

Thanksgiving Day

Let Us Give Thanks For Our Blessings

The year has been good to us. Our country is at peace. Our harvests have been bountiful. Some of us may have wished for more. But in no other country in the world have a people enjoyed the abundance that we, in America, take for granted. From the dawn of recorded history mankind has turned to God to give thanks for His bounty at the close of the harvest season. Let us not forget His goodness. Let us be thankful for our blessings.

$500,000 Needed For School Add?

"A 30-room addition to Antioch high school could be built for $500,000 to take care of anticipated enrollments for the next 8 years or so," Lake county school superintendent W. C. Petty told the school board recently.

Invited by the high school board to give his views on the problem of providing for the expected 1,800 or so students by 1970, or sooner, Petty suggested an addition to the present structure.

It would be built, under his suggestion, in front of the present building and would contain two floors with 16 classrooms on each floor.

High school board members pointed out that the present gym does not even now hold all people wishing to attend basketball games nor does the school auditorium take care of the 700 registered students at one time.

Library and cafeteria facilities should be expanded to take care of the students now attending high school, let alone when more are attending, board members said.

Petty told the board he thought that expansion of academic subjects was of big importance. He said he thought that courses in shop, home economics, woodworking, commercial and the like could be played down.

Thereby, it was his assertion, only classrooms would be needed in a new building or addition to take care of the student influx.

Board members pointed out that hazards might develop if the present building were added onto.

They said traffic problems and parking troubles could develop with as many as 900 to 2,000 students being schooled at the present site. Wider streets and traffic controls might be needed.

School leaders have pointed out that double shifts or staggered study schedules will be necessary in a couple of years at ATHS, possibly next year.

An attempt was to be made this week Wednesday in Lake county circuit court before Judge Attan of DuPage county to quash the indictments against three Antioch businessmen charged with book-making.

Santa Visit Dated Dec. 5

Santa Claus will make his first official visit to Antioch the morning of Saturday, Dec. 5, when a helicopter brings him into town from his North Pole home for a visit with children of all ages.

He is scheduled to reach the city parking lot in Antioch at 10 a.m.

There will be six free rides given to children in the helicopter. Tickets may be obtained in most of the Antioch stores.

Free shows will be given in both the Antioch and the Lakes theatres that day starting about 11 a.m.

Santa will go to the rescue squad building to meet the children and to give out candy.

A large community Christmas tree complete with colored lights is to be erected near the rescue squad building.

Santa's visit, the free shows, candy, helicopter rides and other events Saturday, Dec. 5, are being sponsored by the Antioch chamber of commerce.

Cemetery Plan Opposed By Many Nearby Residents

There wasn't much question about the sentiment of people attending a hearing in the Antioch village hall last Friday afternoon.

They were agin it.

They were protesting—some 45 people strong—the proposed rezoning of about 24 acres near the intersection of the Beach Grove road and route 59 near the Emmons school.

In particular the men and women were opposed to the plan of establishing a cemetery, even with a buffer strip around the entire area, which had been proposed by Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Bemis of Antioch.

The Lake county zoning board of appeals reserved any decision on the matter until the next board meeting Dec. 9.

The land in question now is zoned for farming.

Bemis, represented by attorney Edward Jacobs of Antioch, told the zoning board that the cemetery, if a permit was granted, would be of a park-type nature with no headstones sticking into the air.

HEADSTONES WOULD lie flush with the ground. The buffer strip would be 40-feet wide to screen the cemetery. The burying ground would be operated by Bemis and some unnamed Antioch people who would form a corporation.

Lots would be disposed of as the need arose. No sales campaign would be put on, Bemis said.

He figured 300 to 400 burial lots to the acre would be available and pointed out that few vacant burial plots are available in cemeteries in Antioch and in nearby communities.

Bemis displayed a layout map prepared by engineer Milton Stabin, showing roads, the buffer strip and the like.

Stabin and Bemis told of cemeteries in other locations where homes were nearby such as would be the case if this Antioch area cemetery was established.

SABRINA MANOR residents, potential residents and other people living near the proposed cemetery site spoke strongly against the proposal.

Twelve or more persons were sworn in by the zoning board chairman to give testimony.

Ted Larson, a resident of Sabrina

Manor, told the board he had $32,000 invested in a house himself and that $20,000 is the minimum cost of other homes plus $5,000 or so for the land.

Larson said that in his opinion and that of others he had consulted, values in Sabrina Manor would be reduced as much as $55 per front foot.

Land adjoining the cemetery could be reduced in value as much as 50 per cent and others as much as 25 per cent.

ABOUT A DOZEN objections from landowners, home builders and others with an interest in Sabrina Manor and other subdivisions near the proposed cemetery, were given to the zoning board.

Perhaps a crowning point against the cemetery plan came from the Emmons school board which told the zoning group that such an enterprise was not the proper environment for a school.

Rooms of the school building would overlook the cemetery property, there might be no recess outside during funerals and he said minds of small children could be affected.

Lewis Clark of Waukegan was attorney for those opposing the rezoning.

Local Horse Killed

A horse owned by Edwin Krupo of route 3, Antioch, was killed Saturday morning when a truck being driven by an Altoona, Iowa, man struck the animal near this village.

Herman Kramer, operator of the truck, said the horse appeared in front of his vehicle as he was driving along route 173 near Antioch. The truck suffered damage.

Churches Schedule Services

Thanksgiving, a day of giving thanks for members of every faith in the land, will be observed in Antioch with church services Wednesday evening, Nov. 25, and Thanksgiving day morning.

Meditations on the subject of giving thanks for help received and for life itself will be given in many of the area churches.

Thanksgiving, next perhaps only to Christmas and Easter as the day for drawing out people to churches everywhere, also will find many family gatherings, dinners and parties.

SCHOOL SESSIONS were dismissed about 3 p.m. Wednesday after assemblies at the high school in Antioch. Students will return Monday, Nov. 30.

The student council at ATHS sponsored the assemblies. One at 1:25 p.m. Wednesday was for freshmen and sophomores. The second about an hour later was for the juniors and seniors.

St. Ignatius Episcopal church in Antioch will have holy communion at 9:30 a.m. Thanksgiving day (Thursday). Rev. Edmond Hood is the rector.

Mass will be said at 7:30 and 8 Thanksgiving morning at St. Peter's Catholic church in Antioch. Father Francis L. Johnson will say the early mass and Father Alfred J. Henderson the 8 o'clock.

THANKSGIVING morning at 9 o'clock there will be a service in the Faith Evangelical Lutheran church in Antioch where Rev. R. P. Otto is pastor and Lawrence Nolte is his assistant.

Up at the Lutheran church in Wilmot the Thanksgiving service will be at 7:45 p.m. Wednesday with the church choir singing.

Hymn singing on the theme "For What We Can Be Grateful" will be a highlight of the Wednesday evening service at 7:30 in the Antioch Methodist church. The sanctuary choir will present special music.

It will be a litany service with special hymn singing to blend with meditation thoughts by the pastor, Rev. Wallace Anderson.

School Bus Bids Asked

The Antioch Township school board is asking for bids on a school bus to replace a 1949 International with a 52 seating capacity.

The new vehicle would have a 54-pupil capacity on a 3-2 basis, with three-place seats on one side of the center aisle and two-place seats on the other.

Board members were told that two or three school bus runs of ATHS now run at capacity and that if any more children must ride, a morning route may have to be added.

The school group voted to ask for bids to see what prices might be.

Porter Larson and Warren Polley of the teaching staff had recommended to the board that a 1952 Chevrolet 52-seating capacity bus be placed in reserve and the present spare, the 1949 International, be traded in.

They said the 1952 equipment is "in excellent condition to be used daily for additional morning route, if needed . . . (and) which we anticipate may be needed to keep from adding additional bus for the 1960-61 school year."

Salem Church Anniversary Draws Hundreds of People

SALEM, Wis.—Capacity congregations filled the Salem Methodist church at two services and more than 200 persons attended a dinner at the Salem Grade school as the church marked its 80th anniversary Sunday.

Two services in the church auditorium—one at 10 a.m. and another at 2:30 p.m.—were major highlights of the day.

The Wilmot Methodist church choir provided an anthem and led the singing at the morning service at which Rev. Stanford Strosahl, a former pastor and now Appleton district superintendent, spoke.

Miss Ethel Gitzlaff was organist for the two services. Mrs. Doris Grady and Mrs. Gladys Nohling sang solos in the afternoon. Joan Usher was soloist in the morning.

The anniversary message at the afternoon service was given by Rev. Carl Stromberg, another former pastor at Salem and now minister of the First Methodist church in Madison, Wis.

Rev. Carroll Usher, pastor of the Salem-Wilmot Methodist charge, conducted the services.

A COFFEE hour in the church diningroom was held following the afternoon worship.

Telegrams and letters were received from several former pastors. Among them was a telegram from Rev. Glen C. James, (who was minister in 1924) and letters from Rev. James Buxton (1929), Rev. Ernest D. Kistler (1934) and Rev. E. Duane Hulse Jr. (1949).

A letter also was received from Mrs. Oscar Holt, widow of a former pastor.

Rev. Strosahl, who spoke Sunday, was minister at Salem in 1944 and Rev. Stromberg was there in 1929. The latter was minister on the 50th anniversary of the church.

One former pastor at Salem, Rev. Ernest D. Kistler, is retired and is chaplain at a veterans hospital in Georgia.

Rev. Robert Smith and his family are in training to be missionaries to Malaya. Rev. Smith was at Salem in 1953 to 1957.

IT WAS learned that Rev. Albert Monkman, who spent a year at Salem in 1928, now is a district superintendent in Nebraska.

Norman Barthel, a former church member at Salem Methodist, now is minister of the Phillips-Kanon-Hawkins church in Wisconsin.

Lunch at the Salem Grade school was provided by the church's official board, and nursery care was provided in the parish house during both church services.

ART IDEAS EXCHANGED. Here are displayed some of the ideas exchanged by teachers of the Antioch Grade School Teachers' association at a meeting in the cafeteria of the Antioch Community grade school recently. Teachers from both the Antioch and the Oakland schools attended. There were many varieties of Christmas suggestions for adults and students, printed information, and a display of crafts. Shown are, from left, Mrs. Phyllis Paulson of the Oakland building; Mrs. Mary Bruski and Mrs. Edna Becker of the Antioch building; Mrs. Ruth Baathke, president of the Teachers' association, and Mrs. Lucille Whitacre, program chairman.

DEAR READER News Editorials

For This We Give Thanks

It is said that years ago the big family event of every year was the partaking of Thanksgiving dinner at the home of the grandparents where children, parents and grandchildren helped decorate the festive board with their smiling faces and eager hands.

Eager hands that had first been folded quietly before them while the blessing and verbal thanks of all were expressed. Sometimes it was "Grandpa," or perhaps "Dad" and we can think of more than one time when one of us youngsters was asked to give the blessing.

Times have changed little in this respect.

Thanksgiving at Grandma's or at Uncle Joe's or at Cousin Nellie's is still next to Christmas the family event of any year. We drive there these days in a more modern means of transportation than the horse and buggy, but we still eat the traditional foods of yesteryear.

Our heads bowed in reverence while thanks are expressed, are quickly raised afterward to watch the man of the house carve the traditional turkey or duck or chicken or ham, or whatever.

How our mouths watered—and still do—when we think of the delicious foods that nature provided with our help.

How we looked forward to meeting cousins, aunts, uncles and yes often times grandparents whom we saw but once or twice a year for one reason or another!

And if the dinner was being held at Grandma and Grandpa's house, we kids spent many an hour roaming over their big house, in the attic, in the basement or out in the barn. All kinds of things would turn up that made our hunt fun—items we hardly ever saw at home.

As Thanksgiving 1959 comes and goes our hearts and minds once again turn to Thanksgiving—the day of family parties, dinner and fun.

Our prayers have been answered with an abundant crop and good times. Happiness rules wherever we go. Our friends and our families are with us.

For this—and many other things—we give thanks!

It Takes Money, Time, Food, Energy To Drive on Tollway—Just Try It

By Mrs. Pearl Kappel

I presume most people in this area have by now traveled on the tollway.

Did you like it?
Did you find it faster and easier than the other highways?

The first time we took the tollway in to Maywood, we were delighted. No stops, no traffic congestion.

We had a little trouble getting off it, because they hadn't completed the turn-off for Maywood, and we went past it, but got off at the next exit without trouble.

We determined to make use of the tollway at every opportunity.

We had a little trouble each time we took it to Maywood after that. Every week, the entrance and exit to and from Maywood changed a little, throwing us off, but we always quickly rectified our error.

A FEW WEEKS ago we made the trip, and left for home about 4 p.m. We were traveling along the Congress St. Expressway at about 60 miles an hour and sailed smoothly past a large sign announcing, "North Tollway."

Naturally, we figured this was just a warning sign and we would come to the exit to the Tollway in a mile or so.

We didn't.

We'd passed it.

We stayed on the Expressway, because we couldn't get off it, and tried to decide what to do. Traveling at the high speed required on these highways, we were getting farther and farther from home.

A toll box reared its ugly head, and my husband reluctantly dropped in the required 30 cents.

It didn't seem quite sporting to have to pay to go somewhere you didn't want to go, but there's no one to argue this point with, and you're not allowed to just sit there and sulk.

WE FINALLY found a cloverleaf, and turned around on it—losing all sense of direction when we did—and prayed that we were now headed back the way we came.

And that when we came to the proper place, we'd recognize it, and that there would be some way to get over on the north-bound tollway. Going back, of course, we had to pay another toll before we reached the turn-off.

We'd quit worrying about the money by then, though we did some conjecturing as to just what would happen to us if we ran out of money, and had to sit helplessly by one of the toll-boxes and starve to death.

No way to notify relatives of your plight, signs sternly warning no one to stop, nothing but miles of concrete and hundreds of cars sailing along at high speed, ignoring everything.

We finally reached the point where we should have turned north in the first place. It was like seeing an old, familiar face after years of exile.

WHAT A WARM, lovely feeling! And, miracle of miracles, another cloverleaf so we could get over there. And, of course, another toll-box.

Henry had thrown so many tolls in by then that he felt he had acquired a certain knack for the job. Buoyed up by the prospect of finding the way home, he cried joyously:

"Boy, I can hit these things now from any position," and flipped the 30 cents debonairly through the half-open window.

It hit the box and ricocheted on to the ground. Henry tried to open the door to retrieve it.

We were too close to the box—the door wouldn't open. The car behind honked impatiently. How dare anyone pause on the Tollway!

I scrounged desperately around in my purse for another 30 cents, finally found it, and Henry reached carefully out and dropped it steadily in the repository. The light turned green and we proceeded.

WE HAD BEEN two hours on the road by now, and were getting hungry. Signs announcing the approach of "The Oasis" began to appear, and we decided to stop and eat.

They weren't kidding when they named this place "The Oasis." This isn't just a restaurant, but there to do business.

This is a necessity, for people lost on the Tollways, unable to get off. I wouldn't be surprised if there are people who have been on this road ever since it opened.

They can't figure out how to get off, and they may spend the rest of their lives wandering back and forth on the highway, stopping occasionally at "The Oasis" for the necessities of life.

Have you noticed how many people have been disappearing lately?

It's my bet that if they really search, most of them will be found on some tollway, somewhere, cut off from their loved ones, sternly forbidden to stop, slow down or ask directions.

We were in the first stages of starvation by now. The restaurant was attractive and clean, the service was good.

I WOULDN'T want to seem to criticize Mr. Harvey, and I'll admit I seem to have a genius for ordering what isn't the specialty of the house.

Certainly their open-faced club sandwich isn't. I was awfully hungry, but that was hard to take.

I couldn't cut it and was afraid to bite it, so I don't know what it tasted like. The coffee was good.

Starvation temporarily averted, we wandered out into the little shop to see what they had.

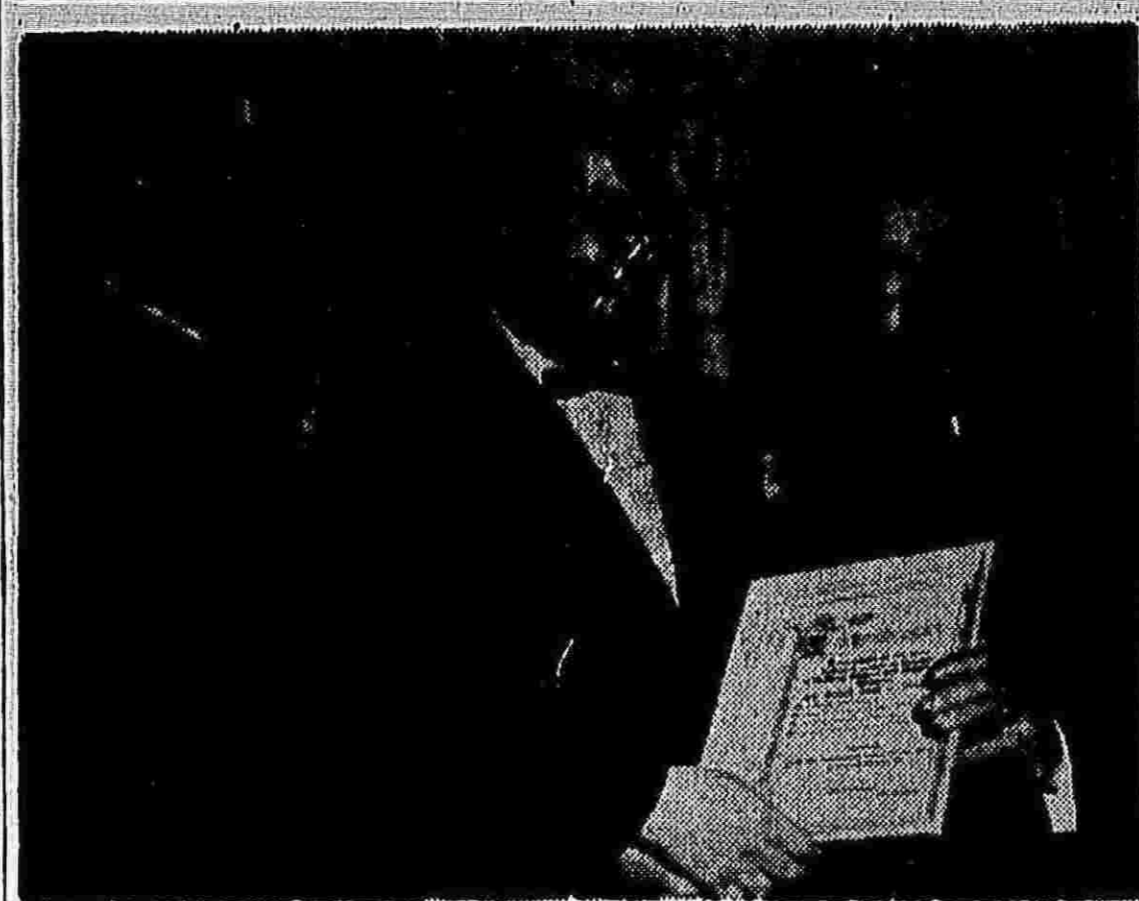

Very nice.

They have all the things every housewife needs, especially if lost on the toll road.

Chocolate covered fried ants and grasshoppers, to name a couple. I

FATHER DALEIDEN HONORED. Father John L. Daleiden of Spring Grove (right), chaplain of McHenry council, Knights of Columbus, was honored recently at a testimonial dinner attended by more than 400 people in the Wing 'N' Fin club near McHenry. The council sponsored the event honoring Father Daleiden for his 10 years service as its chaplain. Following presentation of a purse, a talk and the dinner, a floor show was presented and there was dancing. Others shown in the photo, from left, are Father Eugene Baumhofer of Woodstock, the featured speaker, and grand knight of the K of C, Arnold N. May of Richmond, who presented a testimonial plaque to Father Daleiden.

Dinner Fetes Rev. Daleiden

SPRING GROVE—A capacity crowd of over 400 people attended the testimonial dinner held in honor of Father John L. Daleiden of Spring Grove at the Wing 'N' Fin club in McHenry, Saturday evening, Nov. 14.

This event was sponsored by the McHenry Council Knights of Columbus on behalf of Father Daleiden for his ten years of service as their chaplain.

Grand Knight Arnold May of Richmond presented a testimonial plaque to father for his inspired service and spiritual guidance. Dr. E. B. Stegmaier, Faithful Navigator of Bishop Boylan assembly, presented ed a $250 check to father as a purse. Supreme director of the Knights of Columbus, Charles J. Morgan, acknowledged the fine work Father Daleiden has done for the council for many years.

Father Eugene Baumhofer of Woodstock was the featured speaker and gave an interesting talk, followed by an address by Father Daleiden.

Following the ceremonies was a very entertaining floor show and dancing, with music supplied by the Bell Tones.

The McHenry Council has placed proceeds of this affair in an account for use by Father Daleiden to purchase a ticket to Europe and return.

Father Daleiden has never had an opportunity to make a European trip and is looking forward to an early departure.

was grateful to know there was a place fairly close to home where I could stock up on fried ants.

THERE'S BEEN a dearth of them in "our house, always." I'm sure many people feel this lack bitterly.

I did gain something. I've always wondered what treacle was, and they have that, too. I got some, just to find out.

We resumed our weary travel, close to home now. When we got home it was like coming back after a long time. In fact, it was a long time.

It had taken us approximately three hours to cover about 70 miles. My father did about the same with a horse and buggy. And cheaper.

It cost us $1.50 just in tolls to buy our way out. I refuse to add up the cost of the food—it hurts too much.

I HAVE decided the tollways are really not designed solely for travel. They are part of a deep, devious plan to dispose of part of our exploding population.

They constitute a sort of test of your intelligence and persistence. If you fail to pass the test, you wander endlessly down this road, eventually dropping from human ken.

Perhaps, at strategic points, there is an innocent-appearing exit which ends in a deep lake or a drop-off of several hundred feet.

This could well cut the population down to a desirable number.

I don't think the test is fair or really practical. If Einstein had ever got on the tollway, his genius probably would have been lost forever.

If you should ever hear we're absent and presumed to be on vacation, don't believe it. We're probably lost somewhere. Send food packets, care of "The Oasis."

School Bus Bids Are Postponed

Asking for bids on the purchase of a new school bus have been delayed due to the recent steel industry workers strike, the Antioch Community grade school board decided at its recent meeting.

Norman Jedele, president of the board, said the request for bids would be postponed for two or three months.

The school district was to ask for bids on one large bus and two smaller ones. Board members had indicated they would vote acceptance of whichever size bus seemed best.

Bernard Osmond insurance agency was given the fire and contents insurance policy contract on the Antioch village building.

The workmen's comprehensive and open stock burglary policy went to Loren Sexauer agency.

A basketball backboard was purchased for the Oakland school.

$2,000 Given Hospital For Its Building Fund

McHENRY—The building fund of McHenry hospital has been enriched by $2,000 by the institution's Women's auxiliary.

This was the final payment on a $6,000 donation pledged by the group toward the hospital's expansion plans for an 18-bed addition with a maternity department.

The pledge was made during a fund drive in 1957.

Mrs. Fred Bond and Mrs. Fred Fradinardo, the auxiliary's president presented the $2,000 check to James M. Lennon, hospital treasurer.

Jeanne L. Austin, Robert Nelson Are Married at Millburn Church

MRS. ROBERT LYLE NELSON

MILLBURN—The Millburn Congregational church was the scene recently of the wedding of Jeanne Louise Austin of Waukegan and Robert Lyle Nelson of Lake Villa with Rev. Kenneth Granquist of Waukegan officiating.

The bride is a daughter of Mrs. Paul Bernard Austin and the late Mr. Austin. The bridegroom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle N. Nelson of Mill Creek Gardens, Lake Villa.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Harold Hauck of Minneapolis, Minn., the bride wore a traditional long-sleeved gown of bouquet taffeta.

Her bouffant skirt had a bustled back with a chapel train. The scoop neckline was decorated with re-embroidered Alencon lace, iridescent sequins and pearls.

Her roll hemmed finger-tip veil of French illusion was held in place by a tiny pearl crown. The flowers were the traditional bouquet of white butterfly roses.

Miss Joanne Tandy, a friend of the bride, of Northwestern university, was maid of honor. Her street length dress of pale blue peau de sole with three-quarter length sleeves.

THE UNPRESSED pleats of the skirt were drawn into a bow at the knee. She carried a crescent shaped bouquet of peace roses.

Bridesmaids were Miss Nola McCormack of Valparaiso, Ind., a cousin of the bride, and Mrs. David Creaden of Gages Lake, a friend of the bride.

They were gowned similarly to the maid of honor. They carried crescent bouquets of yellow roses. Their French illusion veils were held in place by matching blue headbands.

Frank L. Schneider, a friend of the bridegroom and a student at the University of Chicago Law school, was best man.

Ushers were Michael Johnson and Donald Finel, both of Gurnee and friends of the bridegroom.

Miss Joyce Edholm, a friend of the bride, was soloist, accompanied by Mrs. Walter Sorvari, the organist.

A RECEPTION in the Millburn

Congregational church parlors followed the ceremony.

Miss Evelyn Hoffman, a sister of the bride, and Mrs. Edward C. Johnson, assisted by Mrs. Knute Arboe, Mrs. Leonard Johnson and Mrs. Walter Fisel, were hostesses and assistants at the reception.

The newlyweds will attend a week of sports car racing at Nassau in the Bahama islands before being at home on and after Dec. 8, 1959 on the Old Grass Lake road, Antioch.

The bride is a graduate of Waukegan Township high school and attended Mount Holyoke college at South Hadley, Mass. She has been employed by Abbott Laboratories and attending Northwestern university.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Warren Township high school, attending Colorado college at Colorado Springs, Colo., and also is employed at the Abbott Laboratories. He is attending Northwestern university.

FOX LAKE—James P. (Jim) Jankowiak, a senior at Grant high school in Ingleside and writer of news for the Fox Lake Hills district for the Antioch News, has been awarded a letter of commendation. This letter that can be framed was awarded for "superior performance on the national merit scholarship qualifying test 1959-60."

It was signed by Wade L. Eberly, principal at Grant high, and by John M. Stalnaker, president of the National Merit Scholarship Corp.

He was one of two out of 130 at Grant high taking the merit test who passed with winning colors.

PROCRASTINATION

Tomorrow, tomorrow
You've so oft heard it said
I'll do it tomorrow
Now I've no time I'm afraid;
But on the tomorrow
'Twas the same again
I'll do it tomorrow
So it was put off again.

Tomorrow, tomorrow
If you've your day so begun
Then trouble you borrow
For nothing gets done;
You say, today I will rest
What of one day?
Tomorrow'll be best
Yet another delay.

If it's put off 'til tomorrow
When the day is the day
It'll bring you but sorrow
For you'll pay for delay.
Do it now, be sublime,
Do it now, oh in faith,
You're trifling with time
When you procrastinate.

ATHS Seniors Looking to Future; College Preparation Must For Some

A recent newsletter sent out to parents of students at Antioch Township high school had some comments on scholastic worth in general and the problems and future of senior students in particular.

This letter is sent out periodically by principal A. L. Dittman in the hope that it will stir even more interest among parents and other adults in the work being done at A.T.H.S.

The letter said, in part: The high school is very proud of the 133 students who achieved the honor roll listing for the first six weeks grading period. A pupil must receive a minimum of 16 honor points.

Honor points are as follows: A—5 points, B—4 points, C—3 points, D—2.

Seniors—Sharon Dittman and Helen Herman; Freshmen—Carol Lasso and Janet Polley are highly commended for doing straight "A" work.

To offset the excellent honor roll achievement, the office finds that 135 students have failed one or more subjects for the same grading period.

The teaching staff and the office feel that the main reason students fail subjects is because of their inability to apply themselves to the work assigned by really studying. Students who fail subjects do not know how to study, or refuse to make the effort to study.

Several seniors are already seriously thinking about what they are going to do upon graduation June 7, 1960.

Some seniors have met with college representatives to discuss the particular college program and entrance requirements.

The office is beginning to send official transcripts to college offices of admission upon request.

Because of the large number of graduates desiring to attend colleges, it is necessary that entrance application be made early.

The office will allow visitation to college campuses if the request is made through guidance counselor Frank Denison and the recommended procedure followed.

Most colleges do not consider an applicant unless he or she is in the upper 50 per cent of his graduating class. Some state supported institutions will admit students in the lower 50 per cent.

A REASONABLE test score must be achieved on the college entrance examinations in addition to rank in class, to be considered for admission.

A preliminary rank in class will be determined by the office at the end of the first semester.

Some of the seniors who are not planning on college have talked to guidance counselor Denison about business secretarial schools, laboratory technician institutions, trade schools, apprentice programs, nurses' training institutions and job placement.

If your child has not made plans for his or her future after graduation, be sure to encourage him/her to discuss the matter with Denison.

STUDENTS, STAFF and Board of education are very happy about the new way the school newspaper (Tom-Tom) is published this year. Have you read the copies issued so far?

The Tom-Tom is printed by the Antioch News and is released every other week by the staff. The adviser is Miss Cleo Hueber of the business education department.

Co-editors are Dani Stratton and Karen Lightsey. Other members of the Tom-Tom staff are listed in each issue of the paper.

The Tom-Tom affords students an excellent opportunity in writing, and the privilege of assuming specific responsibilities.

If your son or daughter is on the newspaper staff, commend him/her for this fine work, and encourage him/her to continue the good work.

Sequoia Staff is Busy Planning '59-60 Edition Of School Yearbook

Lawrence Eggleston, the editors and the Sequoia staff are all hard at work making the 1959-60 edition of the yearbook one of the best.

This year, the work on the Sequoia is being done by four staffs and their respective editors. Bob Wozniak is editor of the business staff. This group is in charge of all the advertising, selling, and financial transactions of the Sequoia.

All the writing, copy work, headlines, and captions that will appear in the book are now being worked on by the editor Sue Romer and the members of the literary staff.

Another very important group is the layout staff. Sharon Berke is the editor, and it is up to her and the staff to work out the actual planning as to how the pages will look and how the pictures, captions, and headlines will be placed on the pages.

Last, but by no means least, is the heart of the Sequoia, the photo staff. What would a yearbook be without pictures? It is the job of editor Helen Herman and her staff to take care of all arrangements to have the best type of pictures for the book.

The entire body of Sequoia workers had the privilege of listening to and asking questions of Mr. Jarman, representative of the Meyers Yearbook Company, the company that prints the Sequoia. Mr. Jarman explained what happened to the yearbook after the Antioch staff was finished with their part.

On November 13 and 14 Mr. Eggleston and the editors went to the Illinois State High School Press Association Conference at Champaign.

Parents 'Renew Education' At Prince of Peace School

LAKE VILLA—Prince of Peace school, Lake Villa, conducted by the Sisters of the Poor Child Jesus, and having an enrollment of 260 children, was the scene of extensive school and community relations Thursday, Nov. 19, at 8 p.m. the doors of the school swung open to admit almost 200 parents to school. It was a return to the good old school days.

The parents experienced again the reply to the belt for classes, the raising of hands in answer to questions and the presenting of the apple to the teacher, (which actually happened) and all that pertains to school.

The evening began with an assembly in the hall in which Fr. David Lynch, the pastor, spoke of the role of the Christian parent in education.

Sr. Clare Antonette, P.C.J., the principal, then discussed the ways in which parents take part in the learning process.

They became acquainted with the child's day at school, the subjects presented and the parent's share in education.

THE WHOLE theme of this "Parent's Night" was an example of teacher and parent working together toward one aim: the betterment of the child.

After the assembly, the bell rang for classes. The parents occupied the same seats which their children inhabit each day.

First grade parents took part in an actual primary reading and arithmetic lesson presented by Sr. Mary Chantal, P.C.J.

This was done to enable the parents to know how to help their child with home study, so the child won't become confused.

Parents of the second graders became acquainted with the principles and techniques of phonics and reading under the direction of Sr. Mary Thomasina, P.C.J.

In grade three, Mrs. Frances Williams demonstrated phonics, reading and arithmetic methods and had parents act as her third graders.

SR. MARY Michaelina, P.C.J., launched into the process of multiplication with a definite stress on the tables and what the parent can do in aiding the child to master the tables.

Parents of the sixth, seventh and eighth grade children received an interesting lesson on the study of geography.

Mrs. Eileen Springer showed the importance of the use of maps and reference materials, and the correlation between the study of geography and world affairs.

The same group attempted English diagrams under the direction of Sr. Clare Antonette, P.C.J. Sister evaluated the necessity, method, and advantages of diagramming.

A few pointers were also given about the different mechanics of reasoning processes of arithmetic of these grade levels.

After the exhilarating feeling of a participation in class, the parents toured the school to see the exhibits and projects made by the children for Education week.

Refreshments were prepared and served by children of the seventh and eighth grades.

The evening proved to be a great success in helping the child. The following is one of several letters received by the principal after the "Parents Night."

Dear Sister:
I want to let you know how very

I'm only sorry it wasn't longer. I think you have done a wonderful thing for the parents, but even more important, you have done something great for the children.

Rescue Squad Called; Retired Man Is Dead

The Antioch Rescue Squad was called to the Deer Lake Hunt club near Antioch last Thursday morning when Thomas Drury, 66, a retired postal worker, was not seen by friends for some time.

Mr. Drury was found dead in his bed after the rescue squad had broken down the door to his quarters at the club. Herman Holbek, chief of the squad, said Mr. Drury apparently had been dead several hours.

Death apparently came after a heart attack. He suffered a light heart attack about two years ago, friends said.

Mr. Drury had planned to leave soon for Florida to spend the winter.

Ideas Exchanged At Teachers Meet

Ideas on art, especially for the Christmas season, were exchanged when the Antioch Grade School Teachers' association of the Antioch and Oaklawn buildings met last Thursday at the Antioch school building.

The session held in the school cafeteria featured displays of some ideas teachers had used successfully. There were varieties of Christmas suggestions for adults and students, printed information and a display of crafts.

Many of the instructors, both men and women, found new and helpful ideas which they plan to use in the future. The displays were divided into tables of them for each grade level.

Controlled Shooting Area Plan Will Alter Habits of Hunters

Significant changes are taking place in hunting in the Chicagoland area—changes which the average hunter may not realize but which are now having an effect upon his hunting habits today and will have even greater effects tomorrow, according to Chuck Terry, director of Richmond game fields, Richmond, a Chicago suburb.

"There are probably two basic reasons why these changes are coming about," said Terry. "1—The landowner is cultivating his land so clearly there is little cover or feed left for wildlife; (2)—The population explosion in this country has increased the number of hunters."

"The landowner, confronted with this great horde of hunters, is worried about letting them into his fields. Actually, there is an excess of 15,000,000 hunters in the United States today and each year hundreds of thousands are added."

"In the '60's when there will be a marked increase in the percentage of teenagers, there will be an even greater pressure on the landowner."

"Out of all of this has come the controlled shooting area," Terry added. "In 1946 there were only a handful of controlled shooting areas in the United States."

"Today there are upwards of 2,000 across the nation, and that doesn't include the many individual sportsmen and groups of sportsmen who lease land and release game on it."

"What effect has controlled area hunting had on the hunter? There seem to be three:

(1). There are more good shots today because the five month season permissible at controlled shooting areas in Illinois means hunters have more practice. (2) There are more women hunters because the controlled shooting areas are easily accessible. (3). More fathers take their young teen-age and younger sons hunting, likewise, because of the easy accessibility of the shooting fields.

An example of the controlled area operation in Chicagoland is Richmond game fields, located on Highway 173, 1/2 mile east of Richmond, Ill.

It is operated as a hunting club and has been three years in the

HUNTING NEWS

By Jim Jankowiak

The duck season is just about over in the Antioch area due to the freezing over of virtually all the potholes and many of the lakes.

Duck hunting is quite good, however, in those spots where the water is still open. The duck season ends on Dec. 8 and the goose season also ends on the same date.

With the slacking off of the water-fowl shooting, other forms of the sport have stepped into the limelight.

This year's pheasant season, which runs until Nov. 30 with a limit of three cocks a day and six in possession, is one of the best in years.

There are plenty of ringnecks in the locality of Antioch. During the last few days especially, the limit has been easy to come by, at least by the straight shooters.

This is because pheasant hunters are tracking down their quarry in the snow, jumping them and then shooting them in flight.

Other upland and migratory birds now on the "in season" docket are quail, Wilson's snipe and woodcock (timberdoodle).

The quail season is open until Dec. 23, with eight a day and sixteen in possession. Unfortunately the little uplanders are few and far between around here.

Snipe season, ending on Nov. 28, is rarely regarded by the local hunters although a few can be had along the swamps now and then.

Woodcock season runs through to Dec. 23. Although not common in Lake county they are frequently hunted on their way south by the downstate hunters. The limit on snipe is eight, on timberdoodles, four.

The most popular small game in America becomes legal to the sportsmen of Illinois this Saturday at sunrise. The limit, as in previous years, is five rabbits a day and ten in possession after opening day.

The only difference with this year's rabbit season is that the hunters have an extra ten days in which to run their Beagles and Bassets.

The cottontail hunting will end on January 31.

Rabbits do not appear to be any more numerous than they have been for the past few years. The only overpopulated areas are the subdivisions where there is no hunting allowed and plenty of vegetable gardens.

making. It has been developed scientifically from the standpoint of raising wildlife, providing proper cover and feed. It is made up of 1,000 acres devoted entirely to hunting.

There has been special planting of feed such as sorghums, dwarf corn and others to provide adequate cover and feed for pheasants. Duck shooting is also provided on the lakes and sloughs of the property.

Inexperience Marks Grant High Cagers

By Jim Glendenning
Grant High Reporter

FOX LAKE—In their opening defense of their Northwest Suburban conference basketball championship, the Grant high Bulldogs will host Wauconda high in the league inaugural for Grant on Saturday, Dec. 5.

The Bulldogs are coached by Raymond Collier, assisted by Dale Yingst.

Frank Riley, a 6 ft. 5 in. senior is the only returning letterman from last season's squad which posted a 15 wins, 8 defeats overall record.

Six ft. 4 in. George Pomey, who lettered as a sophomore last year, has transferred and will play for Prospect high's Knights. His height and playing ability will be sorely missed at Grant.

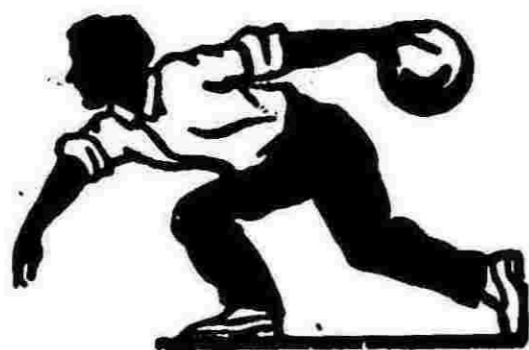

Grant will have a young and inexperienced ball club this season to start the 1959-60 basketball campaign. But judging from past performances, three firsts and a second in the last six years, the Bulldogs could be tough.

With these things in mind plus a good team spirit Grant should keep its winning ways and be a serious contender for this season's cage crown.

Those who have shown most promise are Frank Riley, 6-5, a senior; Dennis Hearle, 6-4, a junior; Mike Bertolotto, 5-8, a junior; David Hodge, 6-0, a junior; Keith Raffel, 6-3, a junior; Glen Flanks, 5-6, a junior, and Rich Howard, 5-11, a junior.

Other squad members include seniors Al Snyder, Dennis Juul and Mike Glascock and juniors Bob Bishop, Ron Brown, Bob Soderahl, John Wolf and Rich Zalke.
